BATHOMATIC AND ALEXA HAVING A SMALL TALK

London, UK, Sept 24, 2019: Bathomatic, Unique Automation's leading product, comes with an Amazon Alexa skill. Now anyone can control their bathtub fill, drain, depth, temperature and scent not only by the fixed touch interface or via their smart phone App (iOS and Android), but also by simple voice commands.

Head of the Development department says the feature was introduced to their products due to public demand and not vice versa as usual: "We were rather skeptical at first, thinking it is not a real necessity to chat with your bath in addition to the variety of already existing options, they themselves revolutionary for the domestic technology. But several of our recent case studies proved as wrong. There was no alternative for touchless control when we had to design a bathroom for a person with pathologically sensitive skin. The brief was to eliminate the need of second person's assistance in a private routine. And Amazon Alexa skill that we have released before long was a ready solution to the problem. Turning the so called "disabled" into "abled" has been Unique Automation's credo since its very beginning."

Singing under the shower one can activate not only bathomatic but all the younger members of the unique family. Like the less popular yet: stemomatic, turning any bathroom into a SPA unit within minutes, bathler, keeping the water to a given temperature as needed, iShower, modulating the temperate on up to 12 outlets with precision, mixing and matching functions with Sky Shower and so on.

To see what else a bathroom can to do for you, just ask Alexa or go to:
